Kossuth and Capt. Long .- The reporter of the New York Post, when on board the Mississippi, sent to that paper the following:

"The officers of the Mississippi are indignant at the accounts which have been given of the conduct of Kossuth. They say nobody was authorized to make the representations which have been made. Kossuth, they report, is a noble man, and makes friends of all who come in contract with him. The letter-writers and attaches tact with him. The letter-writers and attached must take the back track."

Where is "the intelligent gentleman," the "attache of an American legation," the gentleman who thinks European democrats unfit for the enjoyment of a popular government-the gentleman who was so much disgusted at Kossuth for consorting with poor, ragged fellows? Where is he? Who is he? What is he? Does the Intelligencer, the Republic, the Baltimore Patriot, the New York Herald, or any other print of the more respectable class, know anything about him? Who has a correspondent at Marseilles? We pause for a reply.

LIGHT WANTED .- A correspondent states that lamps are very much needed on 7th and 12th streets by the citizens of Washington, and particularly by the inhabitants of the rapidly increasing portion known as the Island. should be giad to see this subject attended to; and, to that end, we hope the approaching Congress will make an appropriation to lay gaspipes from Pennsylvania avenue along these two streets to the corner of B street. We think the increasing importance of the Smithsonian Institution demands this at the hands of our Hungary-The Hungarians-Kossuth. Who is Kossuth? Who are the Hungarians? What is and what has been Hungary? These questions are on the lips of many who desire to understand aright the events of the world now passing around them. And happily we have before us a small volume that answers these questions fully and satisfactorily. It is entitled " Hungary and Kossuth, or an American Exposition of the late Hungarian Revolution." is by the Rev. B. F. Tefft, D. D.; from the press of John Ball, Philadelphia, and for sale in this city by Austin Gray, 7th street, opposite Odd-Fellows' Hall.

This work is more than its title would indicate. It treats ably and learnedly, in proper succession, of the geographical position of Hungary; of its physical characteristics; of its history from a remote period; its population, language, literature, religion, political constitution and social tendencies; and its warfare, its struggles, its successes and defeats. These and every kindred subject, from the earliest period and refugee, Alvanola, who spoke of the Pro- gagement at Paris, and she is now on the boards testant Hungarians as the staunch and powerful friends of popular liberty and the political hope of Southern Europe, led the attention of Dr. T. to this people-"a people but little known out of Europe, and unappreciated even there.' From that time to the present the mind of our author was fixed on that country, and his production is proof that he has studied well.

The title page of this volume bears the date of 1852. Unexplained as this is, we are led to error in a small matter, in itself small, but insuppose that it was the publisher's design to volving no less principles than truth, justice, present hour has called it forth. If so he has citizen. In the Telegraph of the 11th instant, leave England on board of that steamer which gladly avail themselves of the result of his fore T. C. Messrs. Taylor & Maury have presented us the November number of the Christian Examiner, a finely printed octavo periodical, chiefly devoted to the cause of Unitarianism. Its articles are high-toned, intelligent, and ably Baltimore. The number would be cheap if it contained nothing more.

SALE OF STEAMBOATS .- The Intelligencer of this morning states that the steamboats Joseph Johnson and Phaniz were sold at auction on Monday, at Alexandria, and bought by Captain principles to maintain for a moment. Peter Jones-the Phonix for $2,705, and the Joseph Johnson for $1.520-for Mr. George Page, of Washington, who, we understand, intends building two new boats of the latest and most approved models, in which he intends to put the engines of these boats, and expects to have them both ready to run with the opening of the spring.

ISLAND IMPROVEMENTS .- We are pleased to see that Odd-Fellows' Hall, in the Seventh Ward, is rapidly rising. The brick work is up to the second story. We also observe, in the same portion of the city, that the foundation of the new Episcopal Church is laid, and we are informed the vestry will push the work rapidly to completion. This ward can now boast a goodly number of public buildings, as well as private Among the latter we will name that of Mr. William Morrison, on 12th streeta fine imprevement, executed exclusively by Island mechanics, to wit: O'Hare and Schick, carpenters; J. A. Cassell, bricklayer; T. W. Walker, painter; John P. Murphy, plasterer.

A Correspondent informs us that the opinion prevails in the city that the late outrageous attack made on Mr. Harvey was committed on the Island. This is not correct. It was near the corner of 12th street and Pennsylvania avenue. We are happy to learn that Mr. H. is improving.

Kossutu.-The papers from the interior are bringing us back daily the echoes of "the eing and denouncing the Hungarian patriot. Their articles, at this point of time, seem very inopportune, and suggest the wish that the oblivion of forgetfulness were a possible volun-

The Countess escaped punishment, and has retired from the world. Of this Count de Bocarme, Mr. Visart was the father-his death probably hastened by the wretched termination of the life of his son.

A QUEER CONTEST .- Some of the newspa pers tell about a talking-match that lately 'came off" at New Orleans for five dollars a side. It continued for thirteen hours, the rivals being a Frenchman and a Kentuckian. The bystanders and judges were talked to sleep, and when they waked up in the morning, they found the Frenchman dead, and the Kentuckian whispering in his ear. We think this occurred some time back.

THE ENTERTAINMENT AT FORREST, HALL TO MORROW NIGHT .- We have been informed that the Young Men's Dramatic Association of Georgetown are actively engaged in preparing for their entertainment on to-morrow night. The first piece (Therese) is a beautiful moral drama, and one from which much good may be derived; and it will be performed by the best actors of the Association. The second piece (the Golden Farmer) is a very popular domestic (the which I shall have to enjoy the honor of the hospitality of your glorious land.

BET JENNY LIND has just given fifteen hundred dollars to the Capital University (Lutheran) at Columbus, Ohio. It was the nett proceeds of her second concert. May she behold the good fruits of her generosity!

LOLA MONTES .- We relent towards this wo man, believing that on her arrival in this country she will prove but an object of pity and compassion. But the man or men who have advised her coming should receive a full measure of censure.

A Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin says of her:

It would be exceedingly curious if, at some future exhibition, diamonds rivalling the Kohi-Noor should be considered of less value than the glass models now shown by Mr. Apsley Pel-latt, and should be produced at even less cost. But if the result of certain investigations which have been communicated to us be correct, our pre-conceived notions ou this subject will be readily ontroverted. Hitherto we have been told by chemists that this glittering stone is pure carbon, and that we may as well try to produce original matter as this substance. But some investi-gation into the laws of chemical combinations and affinities, conducted by the Chevalier Claussen, have, within the last few days, led him to believe that the existing notion of the diamond being composed of the pure element of carbon is erroneous. Instead of being pure carbon, he states that it is a compound of carbon and carbringing us back daily the echoes of "the bonic acid—in fact, a carbonate of carbon; and more respectable papers" of the cities, traduelementary body, as he thinks he has succeeded in dissolving and analyzing it. Hossuth's Letter to Mayor Kingsland. city of New York.

Sir: The United States ordered the steam M. P. J. Julien de Visart, an old and much es-frigate Mississippi to conduct me out of my teemed citizen of that county. He is said to cause to activity.

I hailed this generous resolution as the greatest honor which a man can meet. I hailed it as a ray of hope and consolation to my down-trodden, to my bleeding, but still not broken native land. I hailed it as a highly encour-

And when, with the noble-minded consent under your glorious flag, heard the warm, gen erous, welcoming cheer of the officers and crew—those frank, loyal, gallant men, the true erous, representatives of American freedom, American greatness, American generosity—I could not forbear to have the impression that the spirit of America's young giant has shouted over the waves to old Europe's oppressed nations, "Don't despair—here is a brother's powerful hand to your aid!" These being my sentiments, you can judge by them, sir, how fervently I must have wished to have the honor to be conducted, by this very frigate, to the United States.

But I know that the sympathy of the United States is not given to any man in the world for his own sake, but for the principles' sake that he represents. And so I felt convinced that I would prove unworthy to this sympathy, (this highest treasure of my life,) should I neglect, for a single moment, the duties which Divine Providence has assigned to me; should I neglect to provide, according to the exigencies of lect to provide, according to the exigencies of circumstances, for the interest of yonder cause, which the glorious republic of the United States honored with its approbation and its sympathy. It became, therefore, an imperious duty of honor and conscience to me not to leave Europe without arranging my public and private affairs, father, and a man, impose upon me the necessity to stop for a few days in England, before continue my passage to the United States. Com. Morgan, at Spezzia, and afterward Capt.

Long, of the Mississippi, here did, with the noble kindness of a true American heart, appreciate the motives of this necessity, and gener-ously consented to wait with the Mississippi in the bay of Gibraltar, for my return from Eng-land with the packet boat which leaves South-ampton on the 27th inst.

But the government of the French "Republic," (not the French nation, but its present government,) refused to grant me permission to pass rapidly through France, by which passage might have spared time and sufferings to my wife and children. And now the first means of conveyance to England I can avail myself of, is only a packet-boat, expected to morrow to arrive from the Orient; and this, too, making eleven days to England from here.

On the other hand, Capt. Long informs me that any longer delay here would render not only my associates, but also the officers and crew of the Mississippi, liable, in approaching the coast of the United States at a late season, to many sufferings, by having to endure excessively severe and stormy weather.

So, considering, on the one side, that the Anatomy .- For thirty years past there has been going on in this city a curious process by which the bones of skeletons are dissected, purified, scraped and varnished, when they are again replaced by means of wires, rivets, &c., and reappear in all their pristing strength, beauty, and loveliness, braving the noon day sun of the summer solstice, or the pattering rain or hall of more inclement seasons. Persons having good whale-bone umbrella or parasol skeletons are respectfully invited to leave them with the subscriber for resuscitation Pennsylvania avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenti
